COASTING WILL BE PERMITTED IN GETTYSBURG

Town Council on Tuesday Evening Went Over the Matter once More and Decided to Let Everybody Coast. One Objecting Member. Will Appoint Special Fire Police.

As the result of a discussion in the Town Council's monthly meeting on Tuesday evening coasting in Gettysburg will be allowed in the future and the ordinance prohibiting it will not be enforced as long as consters conduct themselves properly, use reasonable means to protect themselves and others from injury, and do not become a nuisance."

Mr. Bair opened the meeting on the question by saying that when he voted for the ordinance last year he did it believing that such a measure would simply regulate the sport and not prohibit it entirely. Most of the other councilmen agreed with him in this view and said that they would not have voted for the ordinance if they had thought it would stop coasting entirely. During the discussion which followed Councilman Jacobs of Kitzmiller was the only member who favored the strict enforcement of the ordinance and the complete prohibition of the sport in town.

Mr. Bair declared that if the children and others were not allowed to coast on the streets they would find places to secure the entire repeal of the measure. He said:

"I am tired of being called an old fogey block this. I remember that I was once a boy and I know that there is no more healthful thing for the children than to get out in the cool frosty winter air. It helps them grow, stimulates their appetite, makes better citizens and such sport should be encouraged."

To this Mr. Kitzmiller replied that it they did so at the time he was a boy and would go out of town they would get the benefit of the walk but numerous conclusions swarmed this by saying children would not be willing to go out of town, there would be accidents because the town limits are not coasters and the sport would not be safe.

The idea of Council now is that coasting shall be permitted but that the coasters shall stop at ten o'clock in the evening, that they shall not coast on the pavements, that they shall establish guards for their own protection at street crossings and that coasting on one side of the street on which to coast and the other for returning to the top of the hill. The ordinance will remain and should the actions of the coasters become objectionable it will be at hand for enforcement.

HUNT BUSINESS

Mr. Sutt in discussing the coasting matter said that he thought the attitude of local authorities on coasting matters hurt business and that the prohibition of racing on the streets during weighing was said to keep country people away from town on such days

Mr. Sutt said that in other years when there was much snowfall the people would come to town to see it and there would result much added business. How they go to Hanover, Littlestown or Emmitsburg for the amusement. He stated that he did not favor antiquated practices and that driving but thought that for several years in the day it should be permitted.

Mr. Kitzmiller objected strenuously and said that people wanting to race should go to the screens.

The action of the Fire Police agent for the society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in warning people not to allow their horses to stand more than two and a half hours was also considered and some councilmen said that a horse properly blanketed would stand all night if necessary. Mr. Bair was said to make farmers fearful about coming to town when they thought they afraid they would be fined if they stayed long enough to attend to their business.

FIRE POLICE

Fire Marshall George McClellan appeared before Council to ask approval of the plan of the Fire Company to have four or six special police sworn for fire purposes only. The purpose of the company is to have duly authorized officers who can handle the lines and keep spectators and other disinterested parties from hindering the work of the company at fires. The matter in which the Fire Company was hampered in handling the recent Gilbert fire was the cause for the request being made.

Council thought the idea a good one and at the February meeting the Fire Company will recommend members on the officers and the Council will make the appointments

Dr. Henry Stewart, secretary of the Board of Health, presented the annual report for the past year, the re mainder of the report to follow later This contained 70 deaths and the appointment of a member to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of Dr. Stewart's term and the appropriation of $175 to the fund for the pay of $70 to be available now. Dr. Stewart was reappointed and the appropriation was passed.

The Ordinance Committee was instructed to draw an ordinance regarding the construction of buildings in the town and ordinances will be allowed in the present ordinance for the new 10 x 80 feet or that equivalent and there are sale to be made. Adjourned.

The Market Committee was instructed to look into certain matters pertaining to selling in the square after the meeting of the Board of Trade.

Market Master Miller reported collections for the month as follows: total of $15.75 The treasurer's report showed a balance in the general fund of $776 14 and in the special of $606 70 The report was accepted. Council adjourned to meet on the second Monday in February.

NEW OPINION ON TERM OF JUDGES

Distinguished Philadelphia Attorney Thinks Successors to Judge Swope and Others Must be Elected before Terms Expire.

Together with many other counties of the state, Adams County finds itself interested in a legal opinion given by Hon. Philadelphia, regarding the time of the elections of successors to Judge S. McC. Swope and judges in many other counties. The inquirer says:

"An important opinion has been given by John G. Johnson, leader of the Philadelphia bar, regarding the the election of judges whose terms expire in odd numbered years, in which he holds that under the recently enacted amendments to the Constitution their successors must be elected at the municipal election preceding the expiration of their commissions.

"As issue has been raised owing to the recently enacted election laws as to the time when successors to judges whose terms expire. It has been held by many that no specific provision exists prior to the amendments or the statutes for the election of successors to certain judges.

"The number of seats wide imprecision.

"While Mr. Johnson gives it as his opinion that the successors to such judges should be elected at the municipal election prior to the expiration of the terms he admits that the constitutionality of a legislative enactment to that effect is by no means clear.

"It is quite likely that a bill upon this subject will be introduced at some of the Legislature reconvenes."

The Gettysburg Times of Saturday, March 4, 1911, says:

"Judge Swope is one of the commissioned judges whose successors will not have their terms heightened by the act passed at the session of 1909, by reason of the operation of the constitutional amendment which was recently last fall. As a result he will serve out his present term.

"The judges elected are those whose commissions will expire on the first Monday of 1913, that is, the term of County judges not be elected, according to the constitutional law, at the special elections, which must be held within sixty days after the vacancy occurs.

It is impossible, therefore, for the successors of Judge Swope and others to be elected until the November of the year 1911, when the municipal election would naturally expire, and provision for such election is not in force. The schedule to carry the amendments into effect provides for special elections when successors of judges whose commissions will expire in the year January, 1913, there being five such judges. It remains for the next legislature, however, to make provision for the election of the others whose terms are affected by the amendments.

"The judges of course, will not be dealt with definitely by the ballot before, but a general act will be passed providing that the judges whose commissions will expire on such dates shall be elected at the municipal election—or words to that effect. Indeed, one measure has already been introduced extending the term of every public officer whose term expires in the year 1913 so as to make room a successor to him can be elected under the amendments."

CARRIER HAS NARROW ESCAPE

In Descending Steep Hill Horse Loses Control and Wagon and Carrier Go Over Embankment. Undorbrush Saves Injury.

Rural Mail Carrier McCutchy, who covers route three, early Friday had a narrow escape from an ugly accident when descending the steep and icy slope of Harper's Hill in Freedom township while serving his patrons on Wednesday.

The mail on Tuesday night had covered the hill, which is very treacherous at best, with a regular sheet of ice and the horse could not control started down the steep slope when the hind feet of the horse slipped and following the road and jumped over the embankment.

Suddenly the animal struck an obstruction and rolled over the embankment at the side taking the buggy along. Into undorbrush, trees and rocks the conveyance went but by some miracle the vehicle did not overturn and the brush kept it from going farther down. Mr McCutchogh was thrown from the vehicle in the horse free and then walked a mile to the home of Charles Swarthout where he secured assistance to get the vehicle back on the road.

The carrier came out of the affair with nothing injured and except some sweat a late return from his daily trip.

SUITABLE PLACE FOR MONUMENT

Stones Should Have Logical Relation to Surroundings.

BEAUTY HINGES FOR SHOW.

White Bulletin Rules Against Its Laid Down For the Location of Monuments, Yet Certain Fundamental Rules Are Evident.

If your town contemplates building a monument or erecting a statue to a celebrity see that its location has some logical relation to the subject. If it be a poet read in his works, surrounded by the things that he loved and described in his verse. If it be a soldier, a man famed for his deeds of daring, his statue should be given a site which will by many observers evidence his bold attitude and brave mien.

The latest report of the art commission of the city of New York devotes considerable space to expressing its views concerning the desirability of

POINSET AND WEED PLACED MONUMENTS.

(1, Good composition; 2, Poor composition, placed too close to flower. 3, Ideal statue for a poet. 4, Poor statue for a poet. 5, Statue of statesman. 6, Poor statue for statesman; animal freely obscured on some pretense.)

existing monuments and statues as well as the design of a monument of any kind which is to be erected in public places, in connection therewith calling attention to several in the city which by their inappropriate location either have failed to fill the best possible effectiveness or have even detracted from the landscape.

Discussing the subject of location, the commission says in its report:

"These difficulties (the location of monuments) are due chiefly to the fact that in most cases the monument is not designed for a specific site. When completed it is submitted for a definite space, which, in most cases, has been selected not because it suits the character of the monument, but because it is conspicuous, as, for instance, at the junction of two or more important streets or in a prominent place in one of the squares or parks.

"It is self evident that the character of the monument should determine the location of its setting. The all important question in selecting a site is that it should be of a character suited to the monument, but usually, in order to satisfy the desire for a conspicuous place, other considerations are ignored, and as a consequence many monuments stand in unsuitable locations. That so many monuments are in unfortunate places is due not to carelessness or lack of deliberation, but to the failure to recognize the fact that a well placed monument is not the integral part of its surroundings. Because of the this failure to appreciate it, there should be a distinct relationship between a monument and its site. The location of a monument should be determined by the shape or size of the space there and not by the desire for vistas. Some are in the midst of great whirlpools of traffic, others are placed towards where them and huge sign boards for a background.

Many monuments consist of massive granite pedestals surmounted by a few bronze lines. In general these have been erected in parks. Such a group will stand on beautiful green lawns, conspicuous almost, but without appropriation to their surroundings. Rarely it cannot be claimed that they are a monuments to the parks or that the green lawns are suited to the monuments' setting.

Certain definite rules cannot be laid down for the location of monuments any more than rules can with fidelity be given for the composition of a picture or a group of sculptures, yet certain fundamental principles are evident. A monument should be so placed that it stands in proper relation to the street or vicinity and architecturally to the park in which it is located. It should pose or equate; that its commemorative or pictorial character may be in keeping with its surroundings and that it may not become a distant eyesore or the burden in which it stands. The pedestal should be designed with reference to the character of the monument and proportioned to the size of the statue or group it supports.

The Scrap Book

A Slight Omission.

A Scotch tailor, with the man John, was riding to market, relates R. H. Crockett in "Shirley-dod." The tailor and John were perusing a hole in the cover, when the tailor turned his thumb over and read aloud, with "John, I see a hole in your coat."

"Did ye, indeed, for I'm glad ye've all his hunting frae the inside. He'll no be pleased when he finds it in the market. I'll howk the coat-tail off."

Howk was John's favorite word for a spade, having first, of course, stopped the work.

The tailor rode his way and all day was forwardness to ply his trade with the market town, a business in which his heart was specially shy and very willingly have accepted him.

But he was a man of learning, and the laird rode home.

"I saw a cat in the mighty cavern-mouth of the den. Ten tracks I counted and four.

Very kind and considerate, shaked the tailor, and gushed in tenfold. "I'm glad ye've tested on a counsel of your own. Ye've set as the foundation of a fine tress. There's ane for I have said," said John, wiping the blessed sweat of esher-

MATER OF A MIND.

The tailor was not put out. He was indeed, considerably pleased with himself.

"Good, John," he said, "I was beginning to be concerned that I had been a fox in the hole. It's ten years since I saw the bad gang in there!"

Lord, from far severed climes we come
To this Thy house, Thy temple, home;
Then, who hast been our guide and guest,
Be with us at the end, at best.

Detect us, Lord, from every ill,
In mind, in soul, in flesh, in will;
In all we plan and all we do
Be Thou our Light, our Life, our Clue.

Oh, let us hear the inspiring word,
Oh, let us see the Lord's own board,
Oh, let us feel the Lord's own communion
"Go onward and possess the land!"

Lord, from far severed climes we come,
Thou who art truth, and shalt control
The path which leads to heaven's high goal.

Perfectly Sober.

A man who had been sent home to dine and who Elliot's arrive in time for breakfast, was found by his wife when she carefully inscribed at his apartment door: "Perfectly sober, Mrs. Gallagher." "Is that yes, dear?" from his wifey room. "No, it is a testimonial, unfortunately, not caring for man's conversation.

Cheerful Idiot.

"Oh, not so late!" he answered, and then he noticed the bottle of wine and cake on a table in the hall, he brewed up his courage and said: "I see you're expecting company, dear," he remarked, "What a beautiful bottle of wine!"

"Beautiful!" continued the late arrival, "beautiful! Why, I should say. Their perfume is delightful.

"Can you smell them?"

"Oh, yes," he answered, passing through the entire place. It is lovely."

"Well, you ought to, for the perfume of roses," cured the wife.

"Roses, dear, what are especially fragrant?"

"Well, go to bed if that is the case. You see my dear, those are paper roses."—Success Magazine.

Went Her One Better.

Two young women who had been chums for years, but who had grown out of the hopes of many years. They had met by chance in a car and after they had responded in the interest.

"Why, Mary Jane," said one, "I thought you were married and living in Africa as an ostrich farm, and that you had acted as often when you were at a time on an ostrich."

"Oh, that's nothing," said the other. "My husband is often three weeks a week at a time."

In a Bad Way.

The remarkable resemblance of Theodore Roosevelt and Governor Wilson has often been the subject of comment. Both are brainy men, both undoubtedly possess decided opinions, are not afraid to express them and rigidly refuse to find a point taken in argument. Both are fond of horseback riding on the pavement in front of the White House, loudly discussing questions of interest to the nation.

One day last week the Lambs stopped on the corner and then retreated to the circle interior. He went to the White House and rang the bell. Presently there, the rest came mix.

"Is the boss in?" Billy" said he, and used a rest. I know I've been hitting it a little hard, but I'm not drunk. I'm not that bad. What's the matter? Why, I just wanted to see Woodrow and say a few of himself having a fight with Taft."

GETTYSBURG HERO HONORED

General George Gordon Meade Is to Have Honor Due Him. Statue Will Be Unveiled in View of Many Philadelphia.

Military and naval celebrities statesmen, diplomats, journalists, soldiers, captains of industry and leaders of many lines of endeavor from Philadelphia Saturday night in a monument to one of their fellow citizens in the pages of history to Major General George Gordon Meade, the victorious commander of the Federal armies at Gettysburg.

These American lieutenant generals —Hiles, Bates and Young—made the speech-making part of the dinner tribute giving a eulogy setting to the assemblage that gathered as the guests of the Pennsylvania Historical Society and Union League.

The 65th anniversary of the birth of the leader at Gettysburg was chosen as a fitting time to bring to the attention of a two-thirds people the service the "modest soldier had performed, and there was from time to time a sense of obligation to distinguished men that "to command recognition by the nation of one of the greatest Americans who ever led his hosts to victory was accorded to the commander of the fronton

"Upon General Stiles that the Pennsylvania Historical Society should lead in this endeavor fell the responsibility. fitting a quick response from the liberty loving men of Philadelphia to the hero of Meade—and forces were set in motion at a banquet in the society's hall in which nearly 300 participated, they will serve to pass the annals of the struggle between the North and the South. It was said, as a tribute to Meade's keen the position on the pinnacle of fame his prowess had so justly deserved.

Statue Will Be Unveiled.

White haired warriors who be fought with Meade, Sheridan and Sherman had been in the midst of carnage Gettysburg, Chickamauga and the final repetition orchies and sensities with an enthusiasm that recalled the old gatherings seldom seen even in Philadelphia.

Former Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker, president of the society and chairman of the meeting, presided, and seated with him the guests of honor were Lieutenant General Samuel B. M. Young and Lieutenant General John C. Bates, of the United States army; Major General Hiles, of the Maryland militia, General David McMartrin Gregg, Brigadier General Frederick D. Grant, F. HAND AND FOOT
ARE BLOWN OFF

Horrible Accident to Member of Force Constructing Trolley Line from Pen Mar to Blue Ridge Summit.

In an explosion Thursday afternoon, on the extension of the trolley line from Pen Mar to Blue Ridge Summit, Frank Bickle had a hand and a foot blown off, a leg broken and his face terribly scalded, besides receiving other severe internal injuries.

Mr. Bickle, who resides about a mile from Highfield, was engaged on the line-layer gang and had just set off a blast under a stump and then picked up the fuse-lighting expansion cap and a stick of dynamite and started to work with them. He had not gotten more than a few feet, however, when the cap went off, exploding the dynamite. It is believed that a lighted match had caused the trouble.

Mickle had his left hand and foot blown off, his left leg broken from the ankle and was internally injured. He was at once rushed to the Chambersburg hospital, arriving there at 5:30 o'clock.

The injured man is unmarried, but both of his parents are living.

Mickles' condition isconsidered very serious and it is not thought that the nature of his injuries that he can possibly recover.

This is the second explosion of dynamite on the extension line, the last one during the building of the trolley line. The other was that of Mr. Adelsberger.

LATIMORE

Latimore, Jan. 6.—The Christmas entertainment which was held in the Chestnut Grove church on Saturday evening, Dec.31, was largely attended. The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion, and a fine program well rendered.

The sum of this place and the surrounding vicinity became very visibly elastic in the preparation for a sumptuous watch night supper on the Saturday afternoon, Dec. 31. MT. HOLLY WOMAN DIES FROM BURNS

Mrs. Yeingst Succumbs to Injuries she Received when Trying to Kindle Fire with Kerosene. Went into Yard.

A very sad death occurred at Mt. Holly Springs on Tuesday morning at one o'clock, when Mrs Mary C. Yeingst, died as the result of serious burns sustained about 1.30 Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Yeingst lived near the Hanover waterworks, since Alongside of her lived Mrs. Edward Rose. The latter heard Mrs. Yeingst scream at about the same time and came running over bound her in the yard. James Rockenstein, a neighbor, who lives next house and soon others arrived. It appeared that Mrs. Yeingst when about to light a fire had spilled coal oil on the stove. Probably when she struck the match the flame of it ignited her waist. A bottle of coal oil was found on the stove but the kindling in the stove was not burned.

Mrs. Yeingst wore an elaborate waist and it is most plausible that she attempted to put out the flames herself, although it will never be exactly known. The fact that she was unable to tell how it happened before death relieved her of much pain and she at the hysteral, endeavoring to extinguish the flames, which had become her clothing.

She was badly burned about the face and upper extremities and her attention on the part of Dr. Irwin, who did all that was possible, she died at the hour stated.

Mrs. Yeingst was the widow of George Yeingst over 20 years of age She belonged to the Methodist Episcopal church, Mt. Holly Springs, and W. A. Rice, of Philadelphia, and brothers, Mrs. Martin J. Rider of Carlisle, is a sister.

COMPLIMENTS DR. FAHR

The Harrisburg Telegraph has the following to say of Dr. Charles H. Fahr, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fahr, well known in Gettysburg.

"Dr. Charles H. Fahr, splendid new Technical High School—Tech—as the boys call it, was dedicated with fitting ceremony and it will be directed by a Harrisburger, born and bred. The principal of the school is Dr. Fahr, who for the most part has been one of the most popular men in the Harrisburg High School.

Charles H. Fagg. Jr. Dr Fagg comes from a family that has for years been prominent in the affairs of Harrisburg and Dauphin county. His education was inherited from his father for he was a student under the tutelage of the man who helped build up the Harrisburg High School system. The principal was born here and went to the Harrisburg High School after graduation from Pennsylvania College at Gettysburg. He then went abroad to Pennsylvania, to which all Fagers go, and received his degree of Ph. D. Dr. Fagar was in charge of the industrial department and he not only taught the boys the art of construction, but he carefully stored them with the principles of it, so that he ends not simply of the school he was in charge of, but of the boys who have gone out from the school should not become one of the best in the state."

PITTSBURG BANK GOES TO WALL

Liabilities $1,000,000; Assets Placed at $1,400,000.

RECEIVER TAKES CHARGE

Complainant Says $2,000,000 in Due Him—Firm Owns Land in Western Pennsylvania—Banking Has Ceased.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 4.—The banking house of P. V. Rovelstad & Co., with branches in Wheeling, Chicago and Uniontown, Pa., was placed in the hands of a receiver by an order of this court.

Robert H. Marshall has been appointed receiver, and has qualified by law. The liabilities are placed at $1,000,000, with assets at $1,400,000.

The action was brought upon complaint of one John Kadgien, who claims to be a creditor to the extent of $2,000,000. The bill was directed against P. V. Rovestaed, Justus J. Wolf and Anthony A. Jaderow as partners in the firm.

The bill further states that the firm has been conducting a New York branch and that the local members own all the stock except the qualifying shares owned by two clerks in the New York office, and it is further asserted that because of proceedings brought against the New York branch by Attorney General O'Malley on the ground that the firm was not complying with its charter in the business it conducted, a receiver had also been appointed in that city.

This action, the complainant says, affects the business of ten main offices in Pittsburg.

The assets include realty in Allegheny, Westmoreland and Southwestern counties in this state, much of which is in the Monessen district. Then, a receiver will be enabled to liquidate the debts of the firm as fixed by the bill.

Ambrose, one of the partners, is asserted to have become a partner of the firm in 1875, but he filed an answer with the court saying he withdrew from the firm some time ago and disclaimed any interest in the assets. The two other partners filed answer admitting the allegations in the bill, but deny that Ambrose ever withdrew from the firm.

3 NEW GOVERNORS TAKE OFFICE

Foss, Bass and Plaisted Are Sworn In.

ALL ADVOCATE REFORM LAWS

Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire Executives Desire For Progressive Measures.

Three reform governors were inaugurated in heretofore "regular" Republican states. The new executives are Eugene N. Foss Democrat, of Massachusetts, Bertrand H. Bass Progressive Republican, of New Hampshire, and Frederick W. Plaisted, Democrat, of Maine. Foss and Bass are really Republican governors, but because they publish unto the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill was passed, he received on that issue, and last winter was sent to congress as a Democrat by a special election in the Plymouth Rock district. Bass has been one of the most benergent, whose chief aim is to end the political control of the Boston & Maine railroads. Plaisted has always been a Democrat, but is a progressive, and was elected as a result of Republican defection over the question of the activity of the organization and the boycott. Governor Foss said:

Foss Declares For Wide Reform.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 4.—Eugene N. Foss, elected as a Democrat, was inaugurated governor of Massachusetts. He is the first governor inaugurated by that party in nineteen years. The last inaugural was the shortest in the memory of those present, for Governor Foss spoke but said:

"We have reached a crisis in the affairs of this commonwealth. It is a crisis which has been brought about by existing today, not only in Massachusetts, but in every state of the Union. The people in all sections of the country are aroused to the importance of the public servants. The people are demanding that the laws of the commonwealth be executed, and that, if found needed, for these new desire to control the public service, they will give attention to their own ends."

The new governor's reforms he then advised direct primaries, initiative and referendum, corrupt practices act, conditions and pensions of workingmen's compensation, regulation of public service companies, establishment of a public service commission, and the passage of the direct nomination of United States senators.

Bass Wants Just Railroad Regulations.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 4.—Bertrand H. Bass, governor of New Hampshire, was inaugurated for the second time. Governor Bass said in part:

"All our corporations are entitled to the protection of the law, and no more than individuals should they be subject to persecution. In the state the railroads and water powers are the chief forms of monopolies, consequently it is of vital importance to our people that there should be adequate regulations of railroads and water powers. We must have the same regulation of the telephone, telegraph, light, heat and power companies."

Democrat Inaugurated in Maine.

Augusta, Me., Jan. 4.—Frederick W. Plaisted, of this city, became governor of Maine. He is the first Democrat elected governor in this state since 1879. He beat Governor Bert M. Fernald, of Portland, 17.

ANARCHISTS AT BAY DIE IN FIRE

Made Desperate Resistance Against London Police.

BURNED IN THEIR FORTRESS

Cornered Murderers Battle With Police and Soldiers to the End Amid Showers of Bullets.

Fighting to the grim end against desperate odds, "Peter the Painter" and "Dutch Nick," [illegible] anarchists, were burned to death in a house in London, shooting defiance to the laws.

It is believed that the two men were perished with their three female companions when fire in the kidney street in the east end of London.

Only the charred bodies of the two desperadoes were found by the examination of three policemen at Hounsditch two weeks ago had been recovered.

When their homes had been riddled with bullets from the guns of police and soldiers during the fight, the besieged men clustered to the roof and there made their last stand. Below in the crowds below and jeering their assailants until the upper support of the building gave way and the outbreak of flames drove them to their inevitable fastness.

In the battle between officers of the law and the anarchists, three policemen were discovered in their hiding places in the house. Another, shot off two half companions of Sosta Guerin the famous Paris anarchist, and two lieutenants of army of police, a battery of field guns and a Gatling gun with a fire brigade, until their fuses were exhausted.

The authorities sought to take Tip more alive. Every effort was made to get their incarcerated bodies.

Detective Sergeant Leeson was shot and seriously wounded, two other officers were injured, and a number of several firemen were hurt by collapsing walls. Leeson was the only one who was shot. Leeson was the only one who was shot.

The scene of the fighting was in Sidney street, Stepney was attempted with three desperate anarchists were wounded. The police had found the house in which the anarchists were surrounding the place, planned to capture them.

Detective Sergeant Leeson was reconnoitering in front of the house when there was a flash from one of the windows in the house. A bullet struck the silence and the sergeant fell to the ground. He was wounded by with a bullet in the lungs.

Police reinforcements were rushed to the place and a rain of lead was poured into the house by the police. The anarchists responded with rifle fire. Then the police brought up a machine gun and poured a stream of bullets and soldiers; though the latter did not fire for fear of hitting the police.

Soldiers were posted on the roofs of the surrounding houses. Every window nearly at the anarchists, who appeared and disappeared in the windows amid volleys of bullets.

The anarchists were armed with magazine revolvers and had a good supply of ammunition. They were also said to have had explosives which marked the progress of the fight.

Piles of straw were lighted near the house in the hope that the smoke would suffocate the defenders, and it is thought likely that the flames were started from this cause.

Early in the morning, soon after three fire engines arrived, the roof fell in suddenly and the anarchists driven from the top floor. The fire spread, and finally went down in the rules.

Hussey Fails to Death.

Rich Hound, whose secret death at the hands of the police was the subject of a coroner's inquest in Angeles, Cal., shocked the world, while he was being taken to the police station.

Hussey laid the world's attitude wrong. He was a man of wealth, owning 11,474 feet, and a day later sailed on a steamer for a hunting trip among the mountain in California.

When he was found Hussey was returning from a trip into the clouds in a flying machine. He was in the air during the spiral dip, and chasers were sent after him in automobiles and in a biplane, when his machine seemed to [illegible] and fell to the earth, a mile over to the ground. As to the New York aviator, Hussey had apparently rendered useless by the [illegible] and [illegible] of the machine. Hussey was thrown out of the machine and endeavored to right his craft by warping the wings, but was unable to do so and fell to the earth.

Hussey was shot and instantly killed.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR COMES TO A CLOSE

Gettysburg Hundred and Two a Notable Year in Town and County. Big Crops in the County. Good Business in the Town.

The last day of 1910 closed one of the best years which Gettysburg and Adams County have ever had, one of the most successful crops and business seasons in this section, and one of the best tourist years which the town ever enjoyed.

The year in both town and county was witnessed the erection of a large number of handsome homes, a new saga of prosperity.

In almost every town and a large number of rural districts these residences have been erected and business buildings have also gone up.

The farmers of the county all report good crops in all lines and even those who had been timid about the economic of their year's labor have had to admit that the farming business in 1910 was a paying proposition.

The condition of success and prosperity has not been local but has been felt everywhere. Gettysburg and the county simply sharing in the luck which has abounded throughout the country.

The tourist business in Gettysburg, 1911 falling the all year for copies while few attempts were made to boom Gettysburg during the coming summer. However, general business conditions good from all indications and the year of 1911 continues to show a prosperous town and county.

SAYS AEROPLANE FLEW OVER TOWN

Flying Machine a Night Visitor to this Section Say Local Residents who Saw Sky Visitor after Dark, Well Managed.

Gettysburg was visited by an aeroplane on a night trip according to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bream, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stock and several others who discovered the outlines of the aerial visitor as it glided and wavered in the graceful curves of a bird, south of Rock Creek.

Mr. Bream first noticed the unusual vision about eight o'clock in the evening and at once knew it was no bird. He thought that it was an unusually brilliant star but soon he discovered that it was moving at considerable speed and he quickly called relatives to the front door to see the sight. Mr. Bushman in describing the visit of the "human bird" says:

"The machine carried a light which was thrown in different directions and when it finally came around over the Reformed Church it was in direct lines of the machine. Whether it was operated by a lighter or by some special variety of flying machine is more than we could discover but it was beautifully managed.

"It moved wonderfully from time to time and could drop down into flying to a great height when it again resumed a small star far away.

"We could not see the occupant of the machine but there is no doubt whatever that the sky traveler was an aviator."

Nothing has been heard of the visit of the night flyer in nearby towns and the origin or destination of the aeroplane has not been discovered. Those who saw it say that it passed over the center in which it was heralded.

Banner Lye

Is easy to use.

No other lye boasted quantity and concentrating, or is so economical. A 25 cent can will make 10 gallons of the best soft soap in 15 minutes. Banner Lye is pure, and is not old-style lye. Coarsest and cheapest. Banner Lye is the finest lye ever made. It is the only lye that is used by the United States Government, also by soap makers, miners, mills, dairy, milk and creameries. Banner Lye is the only lye of washing soda which will be on hand.

Made in pure powder form and saves money besides. A 10-cent can of Banner Lye goes as far as 25 cents worth of the standard soft soap. Do boiling of large quantities of soap. Banner Lye will do it in half the time and at half the cost.

Banner Lye is used by over seventy per cent. of the Soap Makers in the United States.

MAKING UP A SCORE SHEEP FLOCK

We should always remember that back yards sheep cost no more to feed and keep than the scrub, and, on the other hand, we must not forget that the wool we get from them the better grades are more valuable.

Sheep will keep down the bothersome weeds and common grass and will do it cheaper than any kind of help. In starting such a business the grandma of the movies, the persistent weeds and the bothersome briers, thistles and other conditions under which the cow is to be done must be considered. Let us repeat once more that what cow breed is selected the ideal cow set up should be held to ever afterward in making future selections. Yielding charges are dangerous and should not be encouraged unless the breeder is willing to take large risks. Consistent with the above principles are very valuable in the end.

We have often heard the question asked, Is it advisable to use a pure

GOV. STUART'S MESSAGE.

Harrisburg, Jan. 3, 1911.

Gentlemen of the Senate and I once of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor to submit the following statement relative to the financial condition of the commonwealth, together with a brief report of the administration of the affairs of the state. I have refrained from making many recommendations as to matters for legislative consideration, as that may well be left to my successor.

Finances of the Commonwealth.

Sinking Fund, 1910.—Receipts and disbursements of the sinking fund for the fiscal year ending Nov. 30, 1910: Receipts, $2,908,382.25; disbursements, $2,908,382.25; loan on sinking fund, $7,052,134.65.

The indebtedness of the commonwealth on Jan. 1, 1910, was as follows: bearing debt, $1,151,511.29; overdue loans on which interest has ceased, $20,366.15; debt, bearing interest in arrears, $2,250,000; total gross debt, $3,421,877.44.

Sinking Fund Assets—Cash in banks Dec. 1, 1909, $2,962,004.96; public debt, $2,041,107.32; sinking fund investments, $8,117,945.

Sinking Fund, 1910.—Receipts and disbursements of the sinking fund for the fiscal year ending Nov. 30, 1910: Receipts, $2,908,382.25; disbursements, $2,908,382.25; loan on sinking fund, $7,052,134.65.

Summary, 1910.—For the year ending Nov. 30, 1910, the revenues were $29,246,424.43; expenditures, $29,245,-230.93.

Summary, 1910.—For the year ending Nov. 30, 1910, the revenues were $29,246,424.43; expenditures, $29,245,-230.93.

Attention is called to the fact that of the balance, $1,193,511.29, due the commonwealth on Nov. 30, 1910, $2,440.-934.15 is credited to the several funds for the payment of the public debt, and is therefore not available for appropriation, leaving $7,466,182.86 in the general fund, subject to the call of current expenses and obligations of the state.

It is important to bear in mind the fact that the fiscal year of the commonwealth, for the assessment and collection of state taxes and the appropriation year, for the payment of current expenses and obligations authorized by enactment, are not coincident in date. The fiscal year for the collection of taxes closed Nov. 30, 1910; the appropriation year will close May 31, 1911. The appropriations were made for the two years 1909-1910, and 1910-1911, on and after May 31, 1907.

Of the appropriations made by the legislature of 1909 the sum of $1,-497.52 remains to be paid for obligations and current expenses to June 1, 1911, as exhibited in the following table, a reference to which will show that the public school appropriation of $7,000,000 made by the legislature of 1909 for the school year ending May 31, 1911, becomes available for payment to the various school districts on June 1, 1910. It is therefore, therefore, that it will require the entire balance in the state treasury on Nov. 30, 1910, $7,466,182.86, together with the revenues accruing during the succeeding six months, to provide for the appropriations for the year 1910-1911, as the appropriations approved in 1909 were:

It gives me pleasure to report that the state is free from debt, for the reason that there is now in the sinking fund, as above stated, a sum sufficient money to meet all outstanding bonds when due. Notwithstanding this fact, however, the following table demonstrates that revenues may properly be reduced below the amount appropriated for the two years beginning May 31, 1911, unless some means can be devised for increasing the revenues from the property of the entire people and state transportation companies, which, under existing laws, are relieved from the payment of the net amount or money available and to become available for appropriation purposes for the two years beginning June 1, 1911, the present fiscal laws, and is indicated for your information and guidance in considering appropriation measures.

The state has as asset more valuable than is the children, and no one can doubt the wisdom and far reaching influence of the legislation which requires at any child between the age of eight and fifteen years to attend a day school in which the common branches are taught in the English language.

Countless problems relating to our dependent classes and the habitation of the nation remain to be solved. Hence the amount to which additional appropriations has been necessary to meet the needs of the various departments of the state government, and the charitable institutions, has been unusually large. The increase in the cost of supplies, including provisions and hay, and the increase in the cost of labor, have made it necessary to increase the appropriations for the maintenance of the various institutions. The appropriation for the two years beginning June 1, 1909, was $2,000,000, and the amount required for the two years beginning June 1, 1911, will be $3,000,000. This increase is necessary to meet the increased cost of supplies and labor.

Insane and Feeble Minded.

The appropriations made to asylums for the insane and institutions for the feeble minded for the two years ending May 31, 1911, were as follows: Appropriation, $1,500,000; Appropriation, $1,000,000; Appropriation, $1,000,000; Appropriation, $1,000

THOSE TAKEN BY HAND OF DEATH

County Residents Fall Victims to Disease. Two Deaths of People Living at Hampton. Other Deaths. Times of Funerals.

LUTHER A. KOHLER

Luther A. Kohler, of Littlestown, died Tuesday morning at 6 o'clock from a complication of diseases, aged 60 years, 7 months and 23 days.

He is survived by his second wife, two John Hartman and the following children by his first wife: Mrs. Lola Beitler, of near Gettysburg, Wm. A. Kohler, of York, and Ira Kohler, of Louisiana. Also by three brothers and five sisters, as follows: George Kohler, of Littlestown; William Kohler, of near New Oxford; Samuel Kohler, of New Oxford; Mrs. Agnes Butters and Mrs. Alexander Bair, of Spring Grove; Mrs. Kate Wallace, of Red Lion; Mrs. Mosh Brown, of Hanover, and Mrs. David Stonesifer, of New Oxford.

He was a native of Oxford township. His first marriage was to a Miss Culp, of Gettysburg. After marriage they moved west, where they remained for several years. They then moved back to Oxford township where his first wife died. In 1903 he was elected to the Board of County Commissioners for a term of three years, and served in the position to which he was elected with credit to himself and his constituents. The same Fall, 1903, he was united in marriage to Miss Julia A. Hartman, of Littlestown, a daughter of the late Jacob Hartman, who also survives. Mr. Kohler took up his residence in Littlestown right after his marriage, and continued to live there up to the time of his death.

The funeral took place in Littlestown Saturday.

MRS. EVA DANNER

Mrs. Eva Danner died at the o'clock Saturday evening at her home on Center Square from chronic nephritis aged 67 years, 8 months and 7 days.

To the friends of Miss Danner, and they were numbered in scores, the news of her death came as a terrible shock though ill for some time she was given until a week ago today to the closest friends knew that she was not well. With the other members of the family Miss Eva Danner was known all over town by her kindness to every one, by her unfailing graciousness to all whom she knew, and by her devotion to the persons and objects for whom especially cared. She will be greatly missed by a very wide circle of friends.

Miss Eva Danner was born in Gettysburg, a daughter of Hon. and Mrs. Joel Danner. Per short fifty years she was organist in the Reformed church and Sunday School and retained at that position only a year ago. Three sisters survive, Miss Annie Danner, of this place, Mrs. Ursuria E. Reinewald, of Emmaitsburg and Mrs. M. E. Dodi, of Frederick.

COLLEGE OPENED FOR THE WINTER

More Students Present at Opening at Second Term of the College Year. Thousand Dollar Bequest Announced.

Gettysburg College opened on Wednesday with an increased attendance, for the winter term. Dr. Harry Huntington announced the new endowment of the Benjamin Frank Billings Professorship of Civil Engineering and also a legacy of $1000 that the college has just received from the estate of Susan Rosa Swartzwelder, of Roaring Springs.

The new regulations admitting students to the scientific and technical courses with modern languages instead of Latin and Greek are proving very popular. The new civil engineering and municipal engineering courses are attracting a great deal of favorable attention. Municipal engineering is one of the newest branches of engineering, but there is already a large and continually increasing demand for young men trained to do this work. It is closely allied to civil engineering but deals particularly with the problems of city water supply, drainage, sewer system, lighting, streets and pavements, etc.

In addition to the above new engineering courses, the following new courses will be offered if the registration warrants:

1. Latin and Chemistry or Physics.
2. Modern Languages and Chemistry or Physics.
3. Latin and Modern Languages.
4. Biology, Chemistry and Physics.
5. Mathematics.
6. School of Physics.

Twenty five grandchildren also survive.

Noted Nature Expert Coming to York

Well Known to Leading Physicians, Who Endorse His Method.

W. H. HILLMAN, of Boston, the well known nature expert, is to be in York during the week of the Hotel Penn, from Monday noon until Saturday night, January 7th to 11th.

Mr. Hillman finds the Spermatic Shield True, as one said and approved by all. It is guaranteed to cure Varicocele and Impotency permanently, affording immediate relief, but closes the opening in a short time on the only natural way, thereby forever preventing the unnecessary breakdown often worked upon the unsuspecting sufferer.

The Shield is painless without surgery or local injections.

The merit of this instrument was approved by the late Dr. Agnew, and is the only one for its own use.

Mr. Hillman will hold customers in this vicinity, when in need of his services. He will also be glad to show interested persons his personal appliances, as well as demonstrate the reliability of their work without charge.

Registered persons should remember the date and take advantage of this unusual opportunity.

Write for information on request.

Mr. Hillman's headquarters, 1907 Walnut Street Philadelphia.

BOWDY DOTS

The citizens of Conewago township, complain of annoyance by boys from the surrounding towns visiting the township during the term. The patrons are determined to break up the practice and will first request the parents to correct their children; if this fail to accomplish it will appeal to the proper authorities to break up the practice.

Reformed congregation of Conewago charge is to be presented by the pastor, Rev. W. Stonebraker the reliability of their work without charge.

Reformed persons should remember the date and take advantage of this unusual opportunity.

Write for information on request.
